

What Evelyn recognises

Every quote in this document is a real member message that actually matched the pattern the live bot uses — including the ones that matched by mistake.

Generated 2026-09-08 from 39,002 member messages sent between 2026-08-09 and 2026-09-08.

How to read this, and what it is not. Evelyn does not record “I decided this was a cancellation”, so this is not a log of decisions. Each pattern was taken out of the live automation and replayed over real messages, so what follows is what the patterns do — not what we intended them to do. The difference is the useful part. Matching a pattern is also only the first step: the AI still reads the whole message, so a match does not guarantee how the conversation ends up being handled.

Contract changes

These four share one classifier, checked in a fixed order. If a message looks like two of them at once, the earlier check wins — see “When two scenarios collide”.

Early cancellation / wants to leave cancellation

Member wants to end their membership. The word "cancel" is enough on its own.

- “Hi evelyn, i recently made a membership, but I was only trying to check the conditions for the "free until 2027".
Now I have a membership which I do not need, help me cancel it”

2026-09-07
- “abonnement voor contract einde stopzeggen door onverwachte verhuizing”

2026-09-07
- “I already requested a trial.once but cancelled it”

2026-09-07
- “The increase in June 2026 from the early cancellation form”

2026-09-07
- “Ik heb net een abonnement afgesloten maar ik heb dat verkeerd gedaan en wil hem opzeggen”

2026-09-07

Also trips on — 160 of 1,774 matches are about something else. These are the ones we could measure, so treat it as a floor.

- Already cancelled — talking about the past

65 · 3.7%

The member has ALREADY left, or cancelled and now regrets it. Treating this as a fresh cancellation request answers a question nobody asked.

“I just cancelled my subscription but I would actually like to extend it”
- Asking how or whether, not asking to do it

49 · 2.8%

A policy question. The member wants to understand the rules, not trigger them.

“What is the cancellation with price increase about”

Cancelling a class or booking, not the membership

26 · 1.5%

The recogniser fires on the word "cancel" alone, so a member cancelling a Sunday class reads the same as one leaving TrainMore.

"Can I please make a ticket to cancel my reservation at 8 am on Sunday at coolsingel?"

Cancelling a free trial or a brand-new signup

20 · 1.1%

Not a contract to end — often someone who has not started yet.

"Ok. So tomorrow's free trial is cancelled?"

Extension / renewal extension

Member wants to extend or renew, before the classifier considers anything else.

485 messages · 344 conversations · recognised in Build Priced Options + Change Options Briefing — checked FIRST, so it wins over "change"

"I just cancelled my subscription but I would actually like to extend it"

2026-09-07

"I have a 1-year contract, how can I extend it for a 2-year contract with the same conditions?"

2026-09-07

"Hi, I'd like to switch my homeclub to Amsterdam Westerpark but keep my original contract without extending the period or changing the price. could you help me to do that?"

2026-09-07

"I would like then to extend my contract for 1 year with the TrainMore Amsterdam Oost Premium option. I got an email with a promotion"

Changing details, not the membership

24 · 0.7%

E-mail, password, phone, bank or card. Self-service in the app, and nothing to do with the contract.

"I want to change my email"

Changing a booked class time

1 · <0.1%

A booking, not a contract.

"Hi evelyn, i would like to ask train more Singel to change my class from 18:00 to 17:00 is that possible?"

Freeze / put on hold (idle period) freeze

Pausing the membership. Medical only — travel does not qualify.

When two scenarios collide

This is where "the bot got it wrong" usually comes from. Plenty of messages match more than one pattern, and the contract-change classifier stops at the first one it finds — in the order extension → cancellation → change. So a member who mentions both is handled as whichever comes first, even when the other one is what they actually wanted. Where a pair is not marked with a winner below, the two live in different parts of the automation and both can apply, depending on where the conversation has got to.
